BRIDGE COURSE ON "INDIA'S PROGRESS AFTER INDEPENDENCE"

The Department of History conducted a bridge course titled "India's Progress after Independence" to facilitate the transition from school-level studies to college-level coursework. The course was designed to address the gap between the knowledge acquired in school and the more advanced topics covered in higher education.

Objectives:

- To provide students with foundational knowledge and insights into India's historical developments post-independence.
- To equip students with the necessary background to engage effectively with the college curriculum and to enhance their understanding of historical and socio-political contexts relevant to their undergraduate studies.

Programme Outcome:

By the end of the course, students had acquired essential knowledge and skills related to the history of India after independence. They gained a comprehensive understanding of key events, policies, and socio-economic changes that shaped modern India. The course significantly improved their academic knowledge, analytical skills, and ability to engage with complex historical narratives. The bridge course effectively
